

Getting all your geek work done for free...

Several ways to do this, remember our hiring Policies -

Remember

Financed Hires: "Free" hires that work for you but you are not paying out of pocket

Reverse Hires: Do work for you and pay you (anybody who advertises for example)

Leverages Hires: Other benefit (school, experience, interns, charities, etc.)

Training Phase Hires: Hires that are in their training period (not paid)

Tots: The lowest "skilled" individual (they are encouraged to graduate to TT status)

Most companies hire and hope - from now on you hire and expect.

Tech work

Logos/Graphics

Any websites/coding

.html

Opt-in pages

Social media handling (won't take that long)

Email set-up, accounts, blogs, etc.

Anything that has to do with computers or the Internet

Five ways to get your work done -

High schools

Contact IT department (if they don't have one, you're probably calling the wrong school)

Mention your group, REIA, company, etc. and work available "internship"

In exchange you provide testimonial or letter

Interns/Colleges

You can hire and provide work

As always create Policies with them

Same as high schoolers

Ads

Places like VideoHive use Forum section to offer testimonial

School/Church

Any of the groups you are working with or helping can pay for initial cost/s

Financed Hires

As explained

Training Phase Hires

During their phase get data and pay per action

Social Media Manager

This will take things to whole new level

Various groups that handle this

They'll charge 15-45 sometimes more

Work will usually be an hour or two a day

$30/hour - split for clients

I was way off...

$15/hour @ 10 hours - $150/day - $750/week = $500 with over 32 in two weeks

Here's how to get more clients in a DAY than they'll get in a year...

Before we move on - clear on everything so far
